

Discover ▾

Log in | Sign up

Two Girls Of The Same Kind

👁 13 ✓ 0 ★ 2

Chapter 1 by ELLIOT SIBERT-SWEENEY

Jackie was always the popular girl, the one being crowded around, the one being swoon over, the one who would never be different. I was just the girl hiding in the shadows, trying to read my book in peace. I sat alone at lunch and was always being bullied.

Now it might sound a little odd, but we were really close. We might be complete opposites, but we still talk and play. We've been good friends since second grade. She knew I was 'different', and yes she teased me about it.

She pretty much had to tease me about it. If anyone saw us talking and being friends she would become hated. I would never let her become hated, even if it meant I didn't have to listen to insults all day.

We never talked about my love life, because we knew what it was. Nothing, no girl in the entire school would ever go out with me.

I got home one day in January, I got the mail and went inside. I sifted through the letters and found one with my name on it.

"Mom, I'm going to my room, okay?" I asked

"Okay, Jade!" Mom shouted from the kitchen. I quickly ran up to my room and opened the letter.

You are invited to a sleepover party at my house Saturday. I

See more of Story Wars

Please bring at least one snack for the group and a sleeping bag for yourself

Login

or

Create new account

||
| Signed, Jackie. (Please Come!) |

—

I was so flustered. I was going to have a sleepover at Jackie's house!
"Jade! Dinner's ready! Come on down!" Shouted my mom upstairs.
Quickly I ran downstairs and to the dining table. Mom had made mashed potatoes and salad for dinner. I started eating and handed mom the letter.
She smiled and said "Of course you can go honey."
I smiled back.

Write a draft for chapter 2 of 8

 You need to login before writing - click here

Continue the story

☐ Flag as mature ☐ receive feedback

Submit draft

Write a comment...

About Privacy Feedback
See more of Story Wars

Login

or

Create new account